

Senate Ready To Play 'Santa' On Tax Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hoping to wrap up the tax reform package by Christmas, the Senate will be debating during the next several weeks just how far it can go to play Santa Claus for individual U.S. taxpayers.

The issues of personal income tax exemptions and oil and gas depletion allowances are expected to highlight the lengthy debate which begins today.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., says he will press his proposal to raise the personal income tax exemptions.

Gore's proposal, defeated when the Senate Finance Committee worked over the House-passed reform bill, appears to be gaining support in the Senate. Behind it are, among others, Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the Democratic whip, and James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

The Gore plan would substitute larger deductions for an overall reduction in income tax rates passed Aug. 7 by the House and approved Oct. 31 by the finance committee.

Current tax law allows a taxpayer to deduct $600 from his income for himself and each dependent before figuring his taxes. Gore seeks to raise the deduction to $1,000 by 1973.

The oil and gas depletion allowance, now 27½ per cent, was lowered to 20 per cent by the House but raised to 23 per cent by the Senate Finance Committee.

Senators preferring the lower rate are expected to offer amendments to the committee's version to reinstate it.

Yanks Ordered To Wipe Out All In Town: Ex-GI

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A former GI says U.S. troops were ordered to wipe out the Vietnamese village of Song My as an enemy stronghold in 1968 — and did.

"Everything and everybody was wiped out," Charles Gruver, 34, said in an interview Sunday. "Men, women... children... Only the chickens were left alive."

The killings on March 16, 1968, have led to charges that there was a massacre of civilians. Gruver said he was satisfied that Song My — U.S. military code name Pinkville — was infested with soldiers of the North Vietnamese regular army, but added:

"We'd never been ordered to wipe out everybody before. Most of the guys didn't dig it at all. When it was all over, they were almost sick."

Gruver said he was a private first class in C Company, 20th Infantry Regiment, and carried an M79 grenade launcher, but did not fire his weapon.

The attack began about 6 a.m. and lasted until about noon, he said.

Freak Accident Kills State Man

KALAMAZOO (AP) — James Chavis, 35, of Kalamazoo, died early Sunday morning of injuries suffered in a freak accident Saturday afternoon.

Police said Chavis had been riding in the bed of a stake truck loaded with furniture driven by his son, Jim. A gust of wind lifted up a mattress and knocked Chavis onto the pavement.

Chavis was taken immediately to Bronson Methodist Hospital in Kalamazoo where he died of head injuries.

Nixon Hedges On Court Nominee

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time this century a president is trying to decide what to do next after the Senate voted down his nominee to the Supreme Court.

President Nixon said Friday, after the Senate rejected 55-45 his nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth, that he would wait until Congress returns in January for its second term before submitting another nomination.

Nixon also said he would stick with his campaign pledge to pick a nominee who believes in "a strict interpretation of the Supreme Court's role."

While snarling from his worst congressional defeat since taking office, Nixon must try a second time to find such a man who will be agreeable to the Senate.

The last president to face this dilemma was Herbert Hoover, and he handled it well by any

Loophole Noted

Oil, Mining Firms Reap Tax Harvest

WASHINGTON (AP) — A loophole in federal law is letting oil and mining companies avoid $109 million yearly in taxes by funneling income through shadow foundations which give little or no money to charity.

The transactions are legal under present law, but the tax reform bill on which the Senate opens debate today would shut the loophole.

Foundations Tax Exempt. Foundations involved in the deals are granted tax exempt status on grounds they are non-profit charitable corporations. But an Associated Press study shows the main purpose of the foundations is to serve as mid-men in multimillion-dollar deals involving banks and mineral producers.

Use of the complex transactions allows oil and mining concerns to stretch benefits of the present 27½ per cent depletion allowance beyond the 50 per cent net income limitation set by Congress, federal officials said.

Eliminate Tax Liability. It also enables the firms to reduce or eliminate federal income tax liability, sometimes by creating self-induced paper losses.

Involved in the transactions are sales of carved-out production payments—in essence the right to future profits from mineral deposits.

Banks are leery of buying production payments directly because the courts have held that production payments are interests in land, and the law restricts banks' land dealings.

Therefore, foundations—known in the trade as "straws"—are set up to buy the production payments, generally with money loaned by banks.

Number Unknown. The number of foundations involved in such deals is not known, government officials said.

But a check of foundation records for Louisiana and Texas turned up more than 30 foundations whose only assets were production payments. Most had directors linked to banks or oil company law firms.

The foundations handled $118,500,000 in production payments last year and gave $145,635 to charity. This is the equivalent of one-tenth of one per cent.

Donations to charity are small because the foundations earn only the difference between the interest rates charged by banks on loans to foundations and the slightly higher interest equivalent paid by the oil companies on money received from the foundations.

Three-Fold Increase. A study by the Treasury Department shows that production payment transactions totaled $750 million in 1967 and $908 million last year. This represents a

U.S. Awaits Red Arms Talk Move

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — U.S. and Soviet disarmament negotiators opened the second week of their Helsinki talks today. The Americans hoped for clues to what nuclear arms the Russians are willing to discuss in future full-scale negotiations to stem their missile race.

The two teams traded general statements in two 90-minute secret sessions last week, then recessed for a three-day weekend at Soviet request after each side sought more explanation of the other's position. The long weekend ended gave the Kremlin plenty of time to study the conference exchanges and to formulate instructions for its men in Helsinki.

The current preliminary talks, expected to last into December, are a diplomatic probing operation to find out what might be dealt with in substantive negotiations later.

So far both the U.S. team, headed by Ambassador Gerard C. Smith, and the Soviets under Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir S. Semenov, have privately voiced satisfaction with the proceedings.

side's view. Hoover barely won confirmation of his first Supreme Court nominee, Charles Evans Hughes, and lost his second, John J. Parker of North Carolina, by a 41-59 vote on May 7, 1930.

Parker, like Haynsworth, was opposed by labor and civil rights groups. Some critics said he was nominated to pay a political debt to Southerners who had supported Hoover in 1928.

Ocean Looms Nearer For Astronaut Crew

Splashdown Slated Today Off U.S. Isle

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 12's moon men neared the end of their voyage of discovery today, guiding their Yankee Clipper toward a blazing dash through the atmosphere and back to their home planet.

24,600 M.P.H. Ride. Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon Jr. and Alan L. Bean were on a near perfect course that would slam them into the atmosphere 76 miles above the Pacific Ocean at 24,600 miles an hour. Splashdown was set for 3:58 p.m. EST about 400 miles southwest of American Samoa.

The Apollo 12 crew slept soundly for 9½ hours as their spacecraft sped closer to earth early today with Conrad the first to awaken around 5:30 a.m. EST.

"Good morning. We're just getting ready to eat breakfast," the capsule commander said. "Very good," said Mission Control. "You ready for the big day?"

"I don't know. What's happening?" Conrad said in mock surprise. "Oh, we've got a nice little section of the South Pacific reserved for you and we've got most of the Navy standing by to pick you up."

"Good," said Conrad with a chuckle and went on eating his last breakfast in space for this trip.

They planned a short burst of their jet thrusters at 12:44 p.m. to zero in on the area where the aircraft carrier Hornet waited. If they come close, the landing will be televised live.

As the 10-day million-mile journey neared an end, Conrad, Gordon and Bean held the world's first news conference from space during a final telecast Sunday night.

Answering questions prepared by newsmen, they reported it took great skill to land on the moon, rocks are hard to identify because the color changes in different sun angles, sleeping on the moon was difficult and they'd land again in a thunderstorm—as they did Nov. 14—last necessary.

Eye Pin-Point Landing. The astronauts hoped to match in the Pacific the pinpoint landing Conrad and Bean achieved last Wednesday when the lunar module Intrepid touched down only 600 feet from an unmanned Surveyor spacecraft that landed on the Ocean of Storms 2½ years ago.

Deer Hunters Heroes In Kidnaping, Near-Drowning

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — An elementary school teacher was arrested today and charged with kidnapping a 6-year-old boy who said he was abducted in Chicago by a man who tried to drown him in Lake Michigan.

A hunting party rescued the boy Sunday when they chanced upon the scene near Hart, Mich. The hunters said a man was dragging what appeared to be a child's body through shallows near the shore.

John E. Walrath, 30-year-old Hammond resident who teaches school at Griffith, Ind., will be brought before a U.S. commissioner on kidnapping charges later today, the FBI said. He is a teacher and a 1969 graduate of the Fort Wayne Bible College.

"He's trying to drown me," little Tommy told the deer hunters. They scuffled with the man but he escaped and fled in a car which had been parked nearby. Timmy, a brown-haired, brown-eyed youngster who was the object of a large scale search in Chicago, was tearfully reunited today with his mother, Mrs. Kathy Bryant, at the Hart State Police post.

Officers quoted Timmy as saying he "played dead" after the assailant held his head under water.

Authorities in Michigan, Illinois and Indiana hunted the lad's abductor. Officers described the suspect as about 30 to 35 years old, driving a bluish-green, 1968 Chevrolet sedan which had part of the windshield smashed in by a length of wood hurled by one of the child's rescuers. The car had an Indiana license plate.

One-In-A-Million Chance. "It was a one-in-a-million chance that the hunters were there," said Steve Juterbock, 19, one of the persons who took part in the rescue. "The hunters were going back to get a jeep that was stuck. It was a good mile from anywhere that you could drive with a normal vehicle."

Juterbock said he was driving along a one-lane dirt road in the isolated area toward his family's cottage when the deer hunters stopped him and asked him to call police.

After phoning authorities, Juterbock said, he returned to the one-lane road just before the suspect's car sped past him toward a main highway. "I got his license number as he went past," Juterbock said. "A hunter was right behind him in a pickup truck tooting his horn."

Names Withheld. The FBI identified three hunters participating in the rescue as Ronald Evernham, Raymond Diepen and Paul Evernham, all of Shelby.

They were taken to Gary to confront Walrath following his arrest. Juterbock said the hunters told him they were walking along the beach area and saw a man apparently wading in the lake.

"The hunters said they realized then that the man was pulling a body in and they headed for him to see if they could help," Juterbock said.

He said there were at least three hunters and possibly four, although Juterbock was uncertain.

Agnew Gaining Prestige With 'Average' Yank

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Ralph T. Smith, the newest senator, describes Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as "a very popular fellow" with the average American.

"I've found out that in the last several weeks the vice president has become much more popular than he was before," the Illinois senator said in an interview recorded for home state broadcast.

"The American public is giving every indication of liking what he says and how he says it, and certainly I agree with those who suggest that he wouldn't be saying it if the President didn't sort of turn him on or suggest that he might talk in a certain direction," Smith said.

Agnew in speeches during the past month has been sharply critical of war protest leaders and the reporting by television commentators and some newspapers.

But at the same time, Mansfield, in a statement in the Congressional Record, counseled a general lowering of voices.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said President Nixon is leading the administration on a "crude campaign to stifle dissent."

Conrad Reveals: Landing On Moon No Piece Of Cake

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — "I'll tell you one thing," Pete Conrad was saying. "It took every bit of knowledge I had to get that baby down there in the right place. That was no piece of cake."

Conrad, Alan L. Bean and Richard F. Gordon Jr. were holding the first news conference from space Sunday and he was revealing how he brought the lunar lander Intrepid in.

"It took everything I had to get that LM down in one piece," Conrad said. "I think we got some things to work out on that."

Astronauts Quizzed. Apollo 12 was on the last leg of its voyage of 953,000 miles when the space agency passed up questions submitted by newsmen.

The astronauts said they would be willing to launch again in the kind of thunderstorm that charred their blastoff Nov. 14, recommended improvements in tools and carrier bags and reported difficulty in sleeping on the moon.

No "Oxygen High." Newsmen asked whether Conrad's exhilaration on the moon might have been caused by an "oxygen high," a state of euphoria that sometimes occurs when an astronaut breathes pure oxygen.

"I was very happy," said Conrad "but I wasn't on an oxygen high."

Bean described difficulties in identifying rocks and soil this way:

"This second day we went out, the same thing that looked gray to us the first day started looking—at least to me—a sort of brown, dark brown or a tanish brown, and it was really one of the most interesting things of the lunar surface operations... how much that color can change just with a 7 degree or so sun angle change."

Surveyor Looked Brown. The derelict Surveyor spacecraft they inspected and removed pieces from looked brown, Bean said, but "I wouldn't be a bit surprised that when we get all those parts back to Houston, they don't turn out to be under the earth light and light of the laboratory—kind of dark gray again."

The astronauts said they thought their lunar surface walks could have been extended from the two periods of four hours each.

Outside Work Easy. "We weren't tired," Conrad said. "We could have kept on going... The big problem is getting suited up and getting unsuited when you get back in. Doing the work outside is easy."

On the space program's bubbling controversy over whether the moon should be explored by engineers or scientists, Conrad had this to say:

"I think that the idea is to get the transportation system worked out and then take the necessary people to go. There's no doubt that geologists can do a better job than I can. I'm not a geologist."

Lack Of Lunar 'Bugs' May End Quarantine

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — If the Apollo 12 astronauts are found to be free of alien organisms, future moon explorers may be excused from the three-week quarantine now in force.

No lunar bugs cropped up in the men of Apollo 11 or the material they brought back from the Sea of Tranquility.

The Apollo 12 moon landers set down 800 miles away, in the Ocean of Storms, and space scientists say there is a far-fetched possibility a weird form of life might exist in the different environment.

They don't expect to find any, but they're taking no chances.

"With identical negative information from two missions, we might propose relieving the crew quarantine after Apollo 12," Dr. A. D. Catterson, a Manned Spaceflight Center surgeon, said in an interview.

This flight's 21-day quarantine began last Thursday when Charles A. Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean blasted away from the moon's Ocean of Storms and joined Richard F. Gordon Jr. in the command ship Yankee Clipper.

Like Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins, the Apollo 12 crew will go directly from the splashdown to a quarantine trailer on the aircraft carrier USS Hornet.

The trailer will be flown to Houston, where the astronauts will enter the Space Center's Lunar Receiving Laboratory and continue their isolation until Dec. 11.

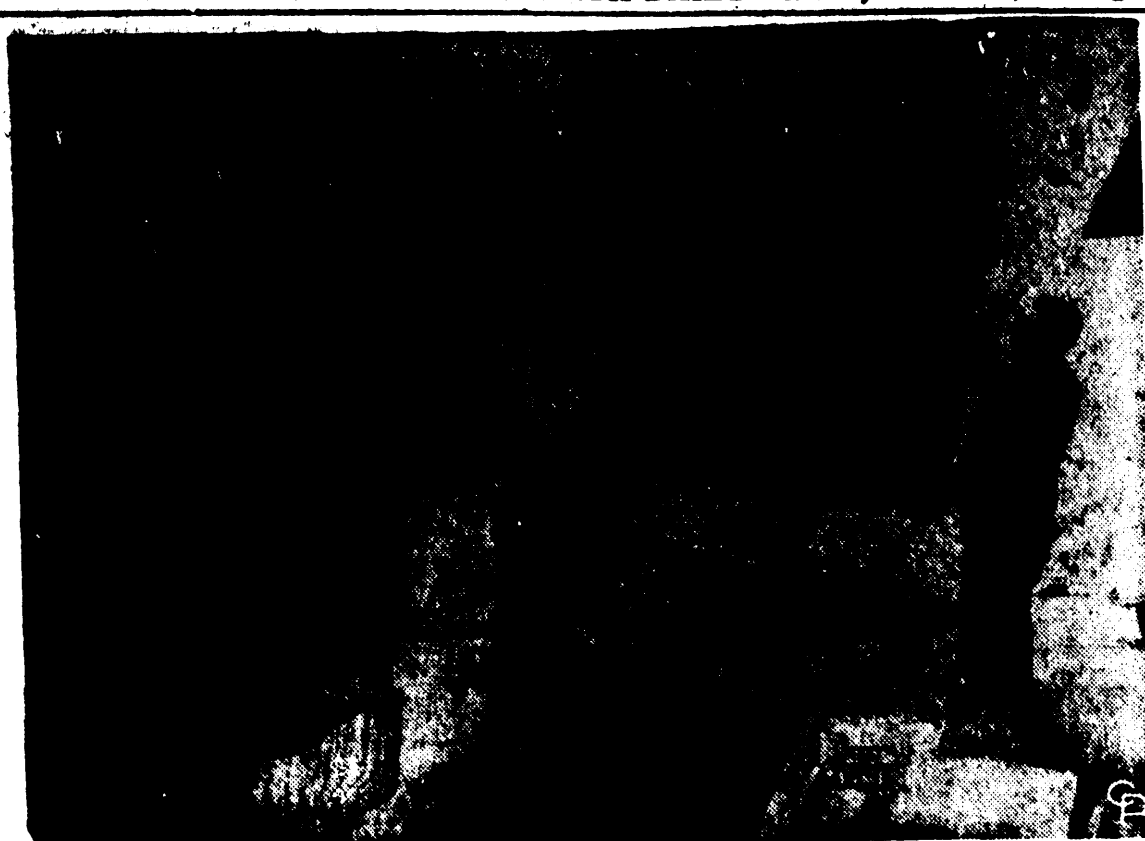

This time there will be no "isolation garment"—the head-to-toe coveralls Apollo 11 astronauts wore to prevent release of any possible lunar organisms into the air. The men complained that the suits were uncomfortably warm and the face plates fogged over.

This second moon landing crew will wear only breathing filters and fresh flight suits, which officials feel will be sufficient.

"From a practical standpoint, as soon as we feel that there is scientifically valid evidence that you don't have contamination—something coming back from the moon's surface that could prove any kind of a threat to life here on earth—we want to relieve the crew quarantine requirements as a first order of business."

Isolated Gene Poses Problem, Scientists Say

BOSTON (AP) — The gene, which transmits hereditary characteristics, has been isolated for the first time—and two scientists who helped do it have voiced fears of possible manipulation of human traits.

"I feel the bad far outweighs the good in this particular work," said Dr. Jonathan Beckwith, 33. "I feel this is more frightening than hopeful. It is obvious that it raises the possibility of genetic engineering."

Also expressing apprehension that the discovery may have harmful applications, Dr. James Shapiro, 26, head of the Harvard Medical School research team which isolated the gene, said: "We don't necessarily have the right to put ourselves on the back."

The discovery was announced to newsmen Wednesday but publication of the story was delayed until Saturday to coincide with publication in the British magazine "Nature," of a paper outlining the technique.

Beckwith, a molecular geneticist, said the means for manipulating genes in humans do not exist at present, but that it was conceivable such techniques could be developed in the future.

Before the work by the Harvard group, genes had been separated in groups but not individually.

Viet Cong Add More Woes To Slaying Rift

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong charged today that U.S. and South Korean troops murdered more than 1,200 Vietnamese civilians in massacres in seven villages in Quang Ngai and Quang Nam provinces in February and March 1968.

The Viet Cong's Liberation Radio broadcast an official statement it said was issued March 25, 1968, charging that American troops "ravaged, pillaged, burned and murdered their way through the village of Song My and its satellite hamlets of My Hai and Xuan Dong on March 16, 1968." It claimed that "501 innocent civilians were murdered in cold blood."

In February, the broadcast continued, "South Korean puppet mercenary troops murdered more than 700 of our people in the villages of Dien An, Dien Hai, Cam Ha and Xuyen My."

No record could be found indicating that the 20-month-old statement had ever been broadcast before, and the broadcast today gave no indication why the charges had not been publicized previously.

The U.S. Army is investigating charges by several former American soldiers who claim to have witnessed the wholesale murder of civilians in the Song My hamlets. The Army has charged one lieutenant with the murder of approximately 100 civilians, a staff sergeant with assault with intent to commit murder and indicated that others may be charged.

Many race tracks take their name from their location but in the case of Sunland Park, N. M., the track was there before the postoffice.

Woman Injured When She Steps In Front Of Car

Mrs. Ellen Linda Frank, 68, of Escanaba Rte. 1, is a patient in St. Francis Hospital today where she is being treated for injuries suffered Sunday night when she was struck by a car on Ludington St.

Mrs. Frank suffered a gashed forehead when she stepped in front of a car driven by John H. Moberg, 22nd St. in the 1500 block of Ludington St., at 10:00 p.m. Sunday, City police said that Mrs. Frank told them that she did not see the car.

Police said the driver reported he saw a person crossing the street, stop, start back, and then turn and cross in front of his car. He was unable to avoid the accident.

Consumer Cuts Buying Plans, NICB Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — American consumers have cut back on their plans to buy cars, homes and major appliances, according to a consumer survey conducted for the National Industrial Conference Board (NICB).

The NICB attributes the belt tightening by consumers to the impact of the government's anti-inflationary measures.

Earlier this year, according to the NICB, consumers indicated that they planned to buy durable goods in anticipation of higher prices later.

"The latest survey — conducted in September and October — suggest that this psychology no longer prevails to any significant extent," the Conference Board said.

In the current survey, 9.4 per cent of families responding planned to buy a new or used auto over the next six months compared with over 10 per cent in the July-August survey.

Interest in purchasing new cars alone has held firm, however, at just over five per cent. Families planning to buy a house within the next six months declined to 2 per cent of respondents in the September-October survey from 2.7 per cent in the previous survey.

In both the summer and fall surveys, about 36 per cent of the respondents planned to buy major appliances compared with 44 per cent in May-June.

Group Asks Billions For Ghetto Cleanup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation must spend billions of dollars to alleviate ghetto conditions if it is to reduce the fear of violence that "is gnawing at the vitals of urban America," says the commission on violence.

In a report on urban crime released Sunday, the commission warned the nation's cities are fast becoming divided into armed camps of haves and have-nots. It also said the United States is the most violent developed country in the world.

Dr. Milton Eisenhower, chairman of the commission, said reversing the spiraling growth of violent crime would cost "billions . . . massive sums of money" over several years.

Recommendations included overhaul of the criminal justice system, increased foot patrols by interracial police teams, improved police-community relations and free drugs for addicts to make stealing to support a habit unnecessary.

But most important, the commission said, "only progress toward urban reconstruction can reduce the strength of crime-causing forces in the inner city."

'Prestige' Battle?

One of the things Vice President Spiro Agnew was talking about in his blasts at network television and monopolistic newspapering is evident in the news reports on the Senate's vote refusing to confirm President Richard Nixon's appointment of Clement Haynsworth to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Like in the instance of Nixon's speech to the nation about Vietnam, network commentators were on the air moments after the vote was taken with "interpretative" reports on the action. An American Broadcasting Co. commentator, for example, reported the results, then continued by saying something to the effect that the defeat was a major reversal to the president who had "staked" the entire prestige of the White House on confirmation. The intimation was that the Senate has repudiated the president.

The Milwaukee Journal, in a belated story by John W. Krole of the Journal's Washington Bureau, said Nixon "had put the prestige of the White House on the line in the controversial appointment."

No argument that Haynsworth's appointment to the court was important to the president and that the defeat was a major setback. It was. But what kind of president would Nixon be if he yielded to the pressures and withdrew the nomination? He had no avenue of compromise open. Haynsworth could be accepted or rejected. It is impossible to reject half a man and take the other half.

And so the president stuck to his original recommendation and fought for it. What would the nation expect the man to do?

But saying that Nixon had "staked" the prestige of the White House on the nomination is carrying things a little too far. Prestige is not something acquired overnight. In the case of the Office of the President of the United States it is something that cannot be taken away in a single vote of the Senate, regardless of how hard the president fought for his position.

Nixon was defeated on his nomination. Other presidents have had their programs thrown back. To say that the "prestige" of the White House was lost in one battle goes beyond legitimate reporting.

Reports of the news can be handled "straight," leaving the "interpretation" which often is so necessary to columns and broadcasts labeled as such.

The Williams Case

After eight years of self-imposed exile in Communist Cuba and Red China, militant revolutionary Robert Williams returned to the United States recently, writing a new and strange chapter in his already bizarre story.

Williams, an American citizen, left the country in a hurry in 1961 rather than face kidnapping charges in Monroe, N. C. He was subsequently charged on a federal warrant with illegal flight to avoid prosecution.

Williams, traveling without a valid American passport, gravitated to Havana and Peking, where he edited anti-American publications and directed propaganda broadcasts at the United States. He was the acknowledged "chairman-in-exile" of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM), cited by congressional sources for involvement in the Cleveland riots.

Last year Williams' followers elected him president of the "Republic of New Africa," a separatist black nation he advocates establishing by force of arms in the Deep South.

Unexpectedly earlier this year Williams decided to return to the United States. Here mystery sets in. Instead of blocking his return, as some congressmen urged, the U. S. government — and influential elements in the American liberal community — went to extraordinary ends to assist him.

When Williams arrived in London, Trans-World Air Lines refused to transport him to the United States and the British government jailed him as an undesirable alien.

The American Civil Liberties Union thereupon rushed to Williams' rescue with a threat to sue the airline. An unidentified spokesman for the U. S. government intervened and convinced Trans-World to transport Williams — at its own expense — to the United States on a special flight on which he and his attorney were to be the only passengers.

When Williams finally arrived in Detroit, federal officers executed a warrant for his arrest and authorities then released him on bail to await hearings on whether he should be extradited to North Carolina.

Williams said he returned because he expects to be cleared and then resume his revolutionary activities, and his attorney indicated Detroit was chosen as the arrival point because of its reputation for liberal judges — leading to speculation that a deal has been arranged.

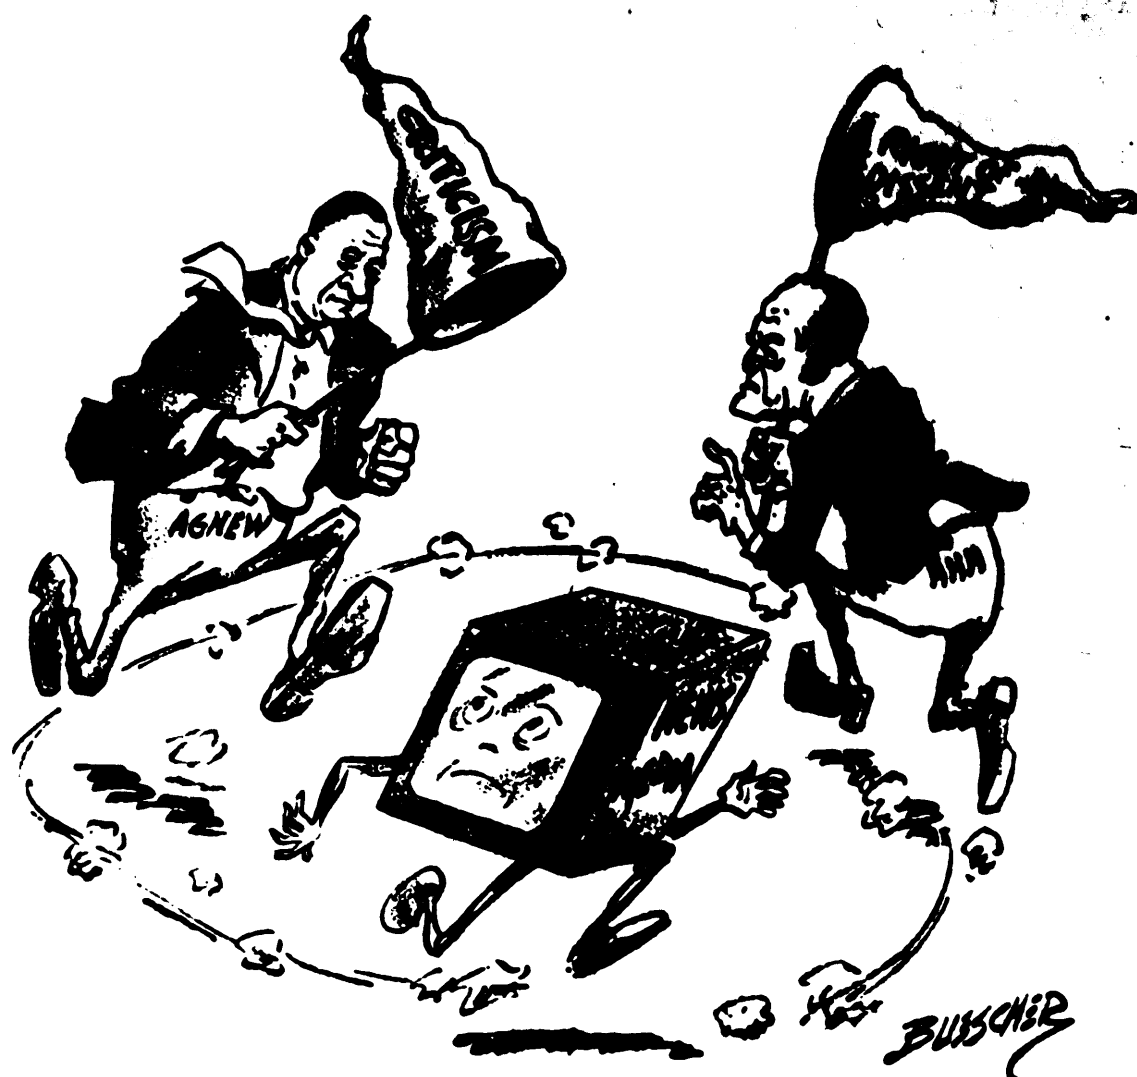

The final chapter in the story is still unwritten — but at this point we can only wonder one of its most dedicated enemies.

Peninsula Potpourri

The old Portage Ave. bridge in Sault Ste. Marie, weary after nearly 70 years of carrying traffic across the Edison Sault power canal, gave up the ghost with scarcely a murmur. The steel truss and girder was removed from her position in a manner considered some kind of an engineering "first." Engineers of American Bridge Co. figured the simplest way to remove the span was to place the east end of the 265-foot structure on a pontoon. The west end of the 150-ton bridge then was picked up by a huge crane located on the west approach. With a couple of mighty heaves, the crane picked up its end of the span, backed up west on Portage and within a few minutes the major portion of the bridge was secure on land.

The new Menominee High School gym will be used for the first time when the Michigan Tech Huskies play an intrasquad game there. The contest also will be the first collegiate affair ever staged in Menominee.

'ROUND AND 'ROUND WE GO—!

Where Is Realism Of War Rivals?

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The domino theory presupposes that if we let South Vietnam fall to the Communists, the other Southeast Asian nations will follow in fairly quick order.

The liberals currently dispute the theory, but even if events were to confirm it many of them wouldn't care in the least. Pete Hamill, a New York columnist, speaks disparagingly of the "Asian masses." There are plenty of supporters of the Hard Left that do not care to die for yellow skins.

But what if the domino theory were to skip a few geographical beats? What if the collapse of U. S. arms in Vietnam were to be followed by a crisis, not in Cambodia or Thailand, but in Berlin? Or, as would be more likely, in the Middle East? Where will our Dr. Spock and Rev. William Sloane Coffin be then?

I'd like to put the question to New York's Sen. Jacob Javits, for example. As Donald Feder, a young Boston University student who dissents from his fellow dissenters on the campus puts it, the New Left has already begun to tell us that Israel has no right to exist. Writing in the New Guard, Feder quotes members of the Students for a Democratic Society and the Young Socialist Alliance as saying that the Israelis have stolen Palestine from the Arabs.

The New Left line, according to Feder, is that Israel is "an instrument of American aggression," and a spearhead of U. S. "imperialism." To the New Leftists, "Moshe Dayan is a fascist pig."

So the more extreme members of the Left are prepared to extend their logic to the Middle East. If the first domino falling happens to be Israel, with Soviet "volunteers" turning up in Syria to aim the anti-aircraft missiles and to mastermind the recovery of the Golan Heights, what then? Won't Sen. Javits' "liberal" clientele in New York City discover that it has been caught with its logic down?

The brutal truth is that every single argument used to support the theory that we have no business defending freedom in South Vietnam applies in equal measure to Israel.

Should young Americans be asked to die in the sands of Sinai? Should we interfere in what began as a domestic quarrel between the Israelis and Palestinian Arabs who were about to be forced out of their ancient homeland? Should we fight for Occidental Oil's Libyan interests, or for our old "imperialism" in the Persian Gulf?

You can hear the arguments now. One wonders how Senator Javits would answer them. The point can be made that the Israeli government, being more competent than the Thieu-Ky regime, is more deserving of support. But the Thieu-Ky government hasn't had a chance to build itself democratically into the texture of a country that was literally bereft of a competent administrative class when President Diem was assassinated and his followers dispersed.

Even if the Israeli government is more deserving, the problem of lending it active military support would be infinitely more difficult than anything we have encountered in Southeast Asia. We control all the sea approaches to South Vietnam. The Eastern Mediterranean, on the other hand, has become a potential trap for the U. S. Sixth Fleet. The whole southern shore of the Mediterranean is in the hands of the Soviet Union's Arab allies. Greece is in trouble, and Turkey doesn't want to become embroiled with Russia. The Suez Canal won't be reopened for years. There are millions of Arabs living between us and the tiny Israeli homeland.

Both logistically and strategically, it would be much more difficult to send active aid to Golan Meir in Israel than it has been to help the Thieu-Ky government in Saigon.

So, if we can keep the Communists from a domino adventure in the Middle East by our continued insistence on a just peace in South Vietnam, the cause of peace will benefit everywhere. And the world may be saved from a second dispersal of the Jews.

Can't Dr. Benjamin Spock see this? Can't Rev. William Sloane Coffin see this?

Where is their realism, their feeling for future probabilities, their sense of justice as applied to the next round of victims of the guerrilla revolution as it is encouraged by Communist design?

As a parent who has one son in South Vietnam and an 11-year-old who may be called upon to die on an Australian beach or in a Middle East desert if we fail to keep our international credit good, I want some good answers.

Pop Festival Discord Still Linger On

ALLEGAN (AP)—The discordant notes from July 4th pop festival, which drew nearly 15,000 persons to the small Lake Michigan resort town of Saugatuck, linger on.

Mr. and Mrs. William Manfold have been fined $100 each plus costs of $155 after being convicted of violating Saugatuck's zoning code by allowing their property to be used for temporary and group housing without permission from town-board officials.

Earlier this month, Mr. and Mrs. James Nicholas were fined $100 each plus $50 costs for allowing their residential property to be used as the festival site.

Letters To The Press

LET'S WIN
 There are people in the United States of America who believe we should unconditionally and totally withdraw all of our troops presently in the Republic of Vietnam.

There are others who believe that after all this war has cost us in lives and money that we should not withdraw without "winning."

Each view seems to be the antithesis of the other, but they are not. They are complementary. These two groups should realize that their only difference is semantic. They should come together—a unification for America.

If suddenly I no longer had to violate every decent principle I have; if I no longer was forced to break every moral code I have been raised to believe in it would be a victory for us.

If 400,700 boys came home to their families and friends, it would indeed be a joyous victory for all of us.

Please, won't you help America win this war? Now!

The Other Side
 My husband has been a fisherman for over 40 years, and has held a license that long. His father before him also fished for Art Shavel out of Drummond Island in 1918.

Yes, we are educated and can read, so we have read of all the wonderful things the coby will do for us, but nobody has taken the time nor bothered to say just what the State of Michigan and its great program is doing to our way of life.

First off, we always were told government could not take away a man's livelihood so here is Michigan eating fish and eliminating the only means that the fishermen have of supporting themselves, so some will have to go on relief. We are being urged to support a bill to partly reimburse the fishermen for equipment that is being put out of use (more money to come from the taxpayer.)

As for tourist attraction, have you ever been to this area and in one of our eating places? The main attraction is a white fish dinner. Of course, in future years (15 or 20) when folks do not remember good fish, coby will be eaten. In the State of Washington from which they originated (God put them there and not in our waters) the folks will not eat them as they are considered trash fish like our mullet and other planted fish such as carp and alewife. Then our eating places will not enjoy the fish dinner trade they once were proud to serve, or is the State of Michigan also going to fish for and offer for sale whitefish?

We really cheer Canada for not taking any part in this plan as they maintain that in is an experiment only. In the process we people involved have to have our livelihood destroyed, receive a small amount of money (if a bill is passed) for our investments of a life time and aware that this money is part of our own tax money. All of this to make a few extra high salary jobs for the DNR and friends. What power a few can have once they get into a Government job.

We know of servicemen coming home to resume their fishing, but even they will not be given a permit to fish.

You read of the marches and protests the younger generation are taking part in — they just got smart earlier than we older folks and can protest. But when it comes to old time fishermen all there is left for them to do is accept the laws or else.

A few facts on coby, first hand. When they can be caught they are dying — do you eat a chicken, hog or cow that is dying? No. The coby are eating brook trout, steelhead, rainbow, baby and adult whitefish, herring, menominee, perch, wal-

Opening lead—King of clubs.

This remarkable hand occurred in the match between Germany and Great Britain during the European championship. The German declarer was Chodzieleser, playing against the famed Sharples brothers, who, incidentally, are identical twins.

West cashed the king of clubs and continued with the ace, East signalling exuberantly in spades with the nine. This was a fatal error and Chodzieleser was quick to seize his opportunity. After ruffing the club he cashed the king of diamonds and led the five of spades, drawing the jack, king and ace.

East returned a heart to the king and then covered the eight of spades with his ten, dummy had the 6-4-3 of spades and East the Q-7-2.

Dummy was entered with a trump and the six of spades brought forth the seven, which was ruffed high. Another trump to dummy enabled Chodzieleser to lead the four of spades and ruff East's queen.

Declarer's work was finally done. He entered dummy with a heart and discarded his heart loser on the three of spades as East sheepishly followed with the deuce. So Chodzieleser made five diamonds on the button.

The British pair at the second table, this time with the North-South cards, didn't fare well either. North opened with a spade and South responded four diamonds to show a long suit and very limited high-card values.

The German West quite naturally did not permit himself to be shut out, and he weighed in with five clubs. North had a difficult decision at this point and elected to double. Everybody passed and West easily made the contract, losing two heart tricks, period.

So the German team brought home a minor suit game both ways of the table, but, despite this, they eventually lost the match!

Ann Landers

Throwing Dirt May Get Son 'Grounded'

Dear Ann Landers: Our teenage son recently discovered that his father is having an affair. Barry spotted his father's car in the alley behind Mrs. K's residence. He decided to wait and make certain it was his dad who was in the house and not someone who had borrowed the car. Unfortunately, Barry got more than he bargained for. He saw the woman (cled in a transparent negligee) kiss his father good-bye in the doorway.

When Barry told me about it, I signed surprise. Actually, I had been aware of the affair for several months.

Something shocking has occurred. Barry told me that he and several of his friends are planning to picket the woman's home. They are preparing signs which read: "Nancy K is a homewrecker and a tramp," plus a few other signs which I cannot bring myself to write and you couldn't print.

I asked what he hoped to accomplish. He replied, "I want to get even with Dad and teach him a lesson." I'm sick about this and I hope you will side with me and persuade the boy to forget it. — Headache

Dear H.: "Getting even" is the poorest motive I know of. Remind your son that he who throws dirt loses ground.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently someone asked you to reprint your definition of success. He said the clipping he had carried in his wallet had turned yellow with age. He promised to enclose the reprint in plastic.

And now will you do me a favor? Your definition for maturity is one of the best things I've ever read. My copy is dog-eared and nearly illegible. If you will reprint it, I, too, promise to have it encased in plastic. How about it, Ann? — S. F. Admirer

Dear S. F.: That definition for success was written by Ralph Waldo Emerson. Here is my definition for maturity.

Maturity is the ability to control anger and settle differences without violence or destruction. Maturity is patience, the willingness to pass up immediate pleasure in favor of the long-term gain.

Maturity is perseverance, the ability to sweat out a project or a situation in spite of opposition and discouraging setbacks.

Maturity is unselfishness — responding to the needs of others, often at the expense of one's own desires or wishes.

Maturity is the capacity to face unpleasantness and frustration, discomfort and defeat, without complaint or collapse.

Maturity is humility. It is being big enough to say, "I was wrong." And, when right, the mature person need not say, "I told you so."

Maturity is the ability to make a decision and stand by it. The immature spend their lives exploring endless possibilities, then do nothing.

Maturity means dependability, keeping one's word, coming through in the crisis. The immature are masters of the alibi — confused and disorganized. Their lives are a maze of broken promises, former friends, unfinished business and good intentions which never materialize.

Maturity is the art of living in peace with that which we cannot change — Ann Landers.

Ann Landers' book, "Truth Is Stranger," a collection of her best columns over the past 14 years is available at book stores. It can also be obtained by writing Prentice Hall, Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey. Price, $4.95.

"What American Means to Me" was the subject of an interesting program presented at the meeting of the Business and Professional Woman's Club Monday evening at Belle's Coffee Shop. The advantages of the United States from a geographical, educational, cultural, and governmental standpoint, as well as its opportunities as a democracy, unique in the world today, were outlined by members who took part in the presentation: Flora Clark, Julia Parsons, Willis Tansley, Alice Potter, Judith Olson and Josephine Saykly.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus McNabb spent Thanksgiving with relatives in Menominee.

Escanaba theater-goers will be treated to a run of high class vaudeville at the Delft Theater starting with Thursday and Friday of next week, Manager L. J. Jacobs announced. Manager Jacobs has made arrangements to introduce first order vaudeville acts here at over double the cost to the management, to give them a tryout and if the people want them and support them they will be made a permanent feature of the Delft program. Saturday and Sunday the bill will be a Spanish trio, one of the first big acts, which is said to be a corollary of a high standard musical act.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Kelley Asked To Probe School Eavesdropping

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Education Association has asked Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley to investigate an eavesdropping incident in the Carrollton school district.

Court Martial Ordered In Viet Village Deaths

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — A 26-year-old Army lieutenant will be tried by general court-martial for premeditated murder in the slaying of civilians in Vietnam, the Army announced today.

The decision to try 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr., was made by Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbot, commanding general at Ft. Benning, the announcement said.

The case will be tried as a capital offense. No date has been set for the trial.

The Army has been investigating reports of the alleged massacre at My Lai for months.

A letter to the Pentagon by a discharged Vietnam serviceman — not a member of Calley's platoon — shed the first light on the case.

Murder charges were brought against Calley last Sept. 5, one day before he was due to be discharged after two years in the Army.

Officials said at the time he was retained in the service pending disposition of the case. He has been attached to a training company at Benning.

Laird Pushing Draft Lottery

WASHINGTON (AP) — January's draft quota has been cut by two-thirds, bringing a drop in manpower needs credited by defense officials to "Vietnamization" of the war to more than 72,000 for a four-month period which began in October.

Announcing the cutback in January's draft call from 35,000 to 12,500 men, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said Saturday he would act quickly to put into effect the draft lottery system enacted last week by Congress.

Laird said the 12,500 men called into the service in January would be chosen by the new random selection procedure from all qualified men between the ages of 19 and 26. After a transitional year, only 19-year-olds will be drafted.

The reduction in projected military manpower needs for January is the second to be announced by the Nixon administration this fall. President Nixon earlier canceled November and December draft calls totaling 50,000 men. October's draft quota of 29,000 men was spread over the three-month October-November-December period.

Laird said the cutback was made possible by "the progress of Vietnamization," a term he uses to describe withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam and their replacement by South Vietnamese troops.

Because of the decrease, and partly because of economy measures within the military, Laird also announced three Army combat training centers would be closed and 100 training companies abolished.

War Of Words On Between Rival Congo Factions

KINSHASA (AP) — The two Congo republics kept up a war of words across the Congo River Sunday. Brazzaville put its troops on the alert and warned pilots and fishermen from Kinshasa to stay out of its territory.

President Joseph D. Mobutu of the former Belgian Congo said in a statement that "if we wanted to occupy Brazzaville it wouldn't take two hours and it would take the U.N. Security Council to get us out."

The former French Congo replied in a broadcast that it would answer "reactionary force with revolutionary force," and "if this was a declaration of war, okay, then war."

The dispute between the two neighbors began early this month when the Brazzaville government arrested 37 persons on charges of plotting to overthrow President Marien Ngoussou.

Ngoussou complained to the Organization of African Unity, and Radio Brazzaville has been claiming a steady stream of episodes at Kinshasa ever since.

Mobutu denied that his government had anything to do with the plot.

"The integrity of all public officials demands that an immediate, candid and full disclosure of all the facts be obtained," said MEA Executive Secretary Terry Herndon in a letter to Kelley.

Herndon noted that Gov. William Milliken, "has declined to investigate this matter on the basis there are criminal implications involved."

"Therefore, the Michigan Education Association... requests that you, as chief law enforcement officer of the State of Michigan, conduct an investigation and make available the results for appropriate legal action," he said.

A spokesman said Kelley had been "concerned" when he heard about the incident and would give the letter "serious consideration."

"We will review the letter and determine if there is a constructive role our office can play," the spokesman said.

Herndon enclosed a statement issued by the Carrollton board of education which, he said,

"leaves no doubt that such eavesdropping was conducted by administrative officers of the Carrollton school district."

The statement said a board investigation "reveals that two separate surveillance systems were installed" in a junior high school teachers lounge.

Since the "bugging" devices were found the Carrollton school superintendent has resigned and the assistant junior high school principal has been suspended.

'I Had Enough' Of Protesters: Vice President

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says he was critical of antiwar protesters not at the behest of President Nixon but because "I had had enough."

Agnew, in the current issue of Life magazine, wrote a guest editorial called "I did it on my own."

"The reason I spoke out was because, like the great silent majority, I had had enough," Agnew said. "I had endured the didactic inadequacies of the garrulous in silence, hoping for the best but witnessing the worst for many months. And because I am an elected official, I felt I owed it to those I serve to speak the truth."

Agnew used the article to defend his Oct. 19 speech attacking the Vietnam War.

He made no mention of his speech in Des Moines, Iowa, attacking television networks or his Montgomery, Ala., attack on the Press.

"I did not make my speech at New Orleans to accommodate the President or even the American people," Agnew said. "I made it to fulfill my own conviction that a political leader should lead, should point out problems where problems exist and dangers where dangers exist."

The stowaways weren't sure they were in Denmark, so they made a desperate dash across the runways with the crewmen in hot pursuit. When the fugitives ran into some airport workers with the name of a British petroleum company printed on their uniforms, the defectors realized they were safe and surrendered to the airport police.

Cold and stiff from the hours in the unheated freight compartment, the two defectors climbed out at Copenhagen's Kastrup airport and ran into two crew members who tried to catch them.

President Nixon earlier canceled November and December draft calls totaling 50,000 men. October's draft quota of 29,000 men was spread over the three-month October-November-December period.

Laird said the cutback was made possible by "the progress of Vietnamization," a term he uses to describe withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam and their replacement by South Vietnamese troops.

Because of the decrease, and partly because of economy measures within the military, Laird also announced three Army combat training centers would be closed and 100 training companies abolished.

The reduction in projected military manpower needs for January is the second to be announced by the Nixon administration this fall. ESCAPED LIFER FOUND AFTER 46 YEARS — Leonard Thomas Fristoe, Jr., shown with daughter-in-law Viola Christine Willis, is pondering the prospect of being returned to prison in Carson City, Nev., where he escaped in 1923 while serving life for two murders. There was a family squabble and his daughter-in-law in Compton, Calif., turned him in.

Freedom Comes To End After 46 Years

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — The old man looked at the high granite walls of Nevada State Prison and shook his head. Then he glanced briefly westward as the sun disappeared over the Sierra Nevada mountain range.

"I guess it was just about time I came back. I guess I always knew I'd be back here," 77-year-old Leonard T. Fristoe said.

Fristoe escaped from the prison 46 years ago after serving 2 1/2 years of a life sentence for slaying two members of a sheriff's posse. He was being pursued for the theft of a model T Ford, two rifles, 15 boxes of cartridges and some salt pork.

In that 46 years, using the name Claude Willis, he had married, had a son, and found both financial success and failure in travels that took him from coast to coast and into Mexico and Canada.

"An awful lot of man—that old man," Claude R. Willis Jr., 38, said of his father. "He came on strong all his life."

Identified as Light, Fristoe's identity came to light recently when he impulsively blurted out his story to a Compton, Calif., police officer who had responded to a disturbing peace call.

Fristoe, a widower who was receiving Social Security and had suffered a stroke 18 months ago was living with his son, daughter-in-law Christine and 2-year-old granddaughter Teresa in a house trailer.

Police said Fristoe had quarreled with his daughter-in-law. Willis said his father had been "difficult to handle" after the stroke and found life in the trailer confining.

He said the family since he had reduced that debt to $5,007.50 and continues to pay on it.

Warden Carl Hocker said Fristoe would sleep in the prison hospital. "I'm not going to put him in a cell," he said. "It's not necessary."

He said Fristoe normally would have to spend seven years in prison before being eligible for parole. He added that it will be up to the district attorney whether Fristoe is prosecuted for escape. Conviction would carry a sentence of 1 to 10 years.

Fristoe said he might have surrendered years ago, but was worried that he might be placed in "the hole"—an isolation cell carved into the ground. Hocker said these had been abandoned years ago.

The warden assigned Fristoe his old room, 2191, and said he would be permitted to continue wearing his cherished cowboy boots.

Arab Merchant Rated One Of 'Untouchables'

By EUGENE A. MULLIGAN
TANGIER, Morocco (AP) — In this age of supermachines, credit cards and hard and soft television pictures, the Arab merchant still is the supreme technocrat of salesmanship.

Madison Avenue couldn't touch him with a 10,000-watt computer. Come wix me to me Casbah and see for yourself.

No Obligations
"Welcome my shop," a friendly voice calls out from the beguiling confusion of a stall in the crowded bazaar. "Have a look around. Buy now-sing. No obligations. All ben Nedim bids you a thousand welcomes and the blessings of Allah."

You can't place the same, but the fez is familiar. Smiling, trusting, Avuncular, sitting there amid a sultan's ransom of rich rugs and copper urns, he is hospitality itself.

"Please, sit down. Have a coffee. Have tea. Have a Coke. Buy now-sing. Get out of the sun. My shop is my home. You welcome here."

Master Of Soft Sell
The master of the soft sell has you gently, firmly by the arm. Before you can blurt: "I left my wallet in my other suit," you find yourself enthralled on a genuine, hand tooled, gold threaded camel skin pouf, flinging a jewel studded, platinum handled, genuine Damascus steel dagger that, from testimonials sworn on a stack of Korans, severed the jugulars of many a Rif Ruffian.

"My grandfather's krib," the proprietor informs you in reverential tones. Only the price breaks the unbearable poignancy of the moment. "Genuine antique: 100 dirhams (80). But for you, my friend, a special price: 50 dirhams."

A small boy, known in the trade as an urchin-merchant, has appeared with a tray of weak tea in authentically dirty glasses.

Between the first two sips, the price already has dropped to 75 dirhams.

Extra Special Price
"You my first customer today: extra special price." The smile is shy and tentative. That of the philanthropist who won't let his left hand know what his right hand is up to.

There is assurance, too, in the hunters' heroes in kidnaping, near-drowning.

tain because of excitement surrounding the events.

Boy Accuses Man
Juterbock said the hunters told him the child wouldn't go near the man after getting to shore and quoted one hunter as saying, "Then the kid started saying, 'He's trying to drown me.'"

The hunters, the Martin boy and the suspect walked to a pickup truck and got in the back but after the truck traveled a short distance the man jumped out and ran off. Juterbock said he was told.

Two hunters chased the man. Juterbock said, and there was a scuffle between one hunter and the suspect when the man reached his car, resulting in a hunter smashing the window of the auto.

Picked Up In Chicago
In Chicago, police said that a friend of Timmy, 9-year-old Steven Walker, told them a man stopped the children in their North Side neighborhood and offered them a dollar to go with him. The Walker boy told officers Timmy accepted the offer and left with the man. At Hart, State Police quoted Timmy as telling them the same story.

Authorities had searched by helicopter and by boat along the north branch of the Chicago River for the Martin child.

mother-of-pearl wall placed against the office of the establishment: "Fixed Price ... No Haggling ... We'll Not Be Undersold."

You have yet to make an offer, but the monologue already has turned to how you would like it shipped or wrapped or taken in your car.

"Now just a dang-busted, goah darn minute," you say in your best early James Stewart innocent-Americanese and try handing the haggler back, but no one is available to accept it. The small boy is busy fanning away the country heat; the proprietor is digging deep into his treasures.

Genuine Rhinestones
"Here, genuine rhinestones: 50 dirhams."

You manage to get across that you don't want a dagger but you might be interested in a pouf, one of those puffed up heavy pillows that Yvonne De Carlo or Vera Ralston used to sprawl on waiting for the caliphs to come home. One in the stall next door caught your fancy.

"All right," he smiles, rubbing his hands. "How many you want? Five? Six?"

When you tell him only one, the price is suddenly back to 60 dirhams. "I thought you were buying many poufs. Can't give special price for just one."

Settling out of court at 80, you get the appeal to the heart: "All right, 30 dirhams. It is less than I paid for 2, but I need the money for an operation on my father's heart." He points to a rosy-tinted gentleman sucking on a waterpipe in the curtained shadows of the family alcove.

The urchin-merchant precedes you up the street, the package on his head, distracting your gaze from a shop window pushing a similar pouf for 50.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon signed today the paper of ratification for the treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons, Russia simultaneously took similar action in Moscow.

Nixon penned his signature on four different documents at the ceremony in the presidential oval office.

All told, 48 nations must sign to make the nonproliferation treaty effective.

The White House said 22 nations already had ratified the treaty.

The instruments of ratification by the United States also will be deposited in Moscow and London, as the treaty requires, within the next 10 days or two weeks.

At that time, there may be a joint Soviet-U.S. ceremony here at the State Department to which former President Lyndon B. Johnson and former Secretary of State Dean Rusk will be invited.

Nixon said in signing the papers that the government thus was completing a ratification process for "a major international agreement designed to make our world a safer home for all mankind."

"Next time!" All ben Nedim is appalled. "Never buy next door. Very unreliable. Only my walk is reliable. Ask any taxi driver. Ask any hotel doorman." That is a bit like putting down Willie Sutton as a bank reference.

Bargaining Begins
"Poufs, I have thousands of poufs," the proprietor assures you, plopping them down everywhere. "Camel hide, goat skin, genuine gazelle. Green. Red. Gold. White..."

Bargaining begins at 80 dirhams—$16. You have more like 50 in mind. At 60 dirhams you are his very special, best-friend-price customer. At 40 you walk out and he follows you up the narrow, winding streets. At 25 dirhams, exactly five bucks, you relent and follow him back to the shop.

"All right," he smiles, rubbing his hands. "How many you want? Five? Six?"

Mrs. William F. Cobb

Christine L. Weber, William F. Cobb Wed

Christine Lynne Weber and William F. Cobb, both of Neenah, Wis., exchanged wedding vows during a candlelight ceremony at 8 p. m. Saturday, Nov. 22 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Neenah.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Weber, Trailer Court, Gladstone and the late Charles Weber and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Anna Mae Curtis of Rte. 1, Sparta, Tenn.

Maid of honor for the bride was Mary Vanierbergh of Gladstone and bridesmaids were Michelle Webber of Gladstone, the bride's sister and Mrs. Robert Weber of Neenah, sister-in-law of the bride.

Lace Trim
They were attired in floor length, A-line Serano gowns in gold, green and burnt orange with lace trim on the sleeves and skirts. Cluster bow headpieces with bouffant veils completed their attire and they carried colonial bouquets to match their gowns.

Peau de Soie
The bride, chose for her wedding a full length coat style gown of peau de soie fashioned with a scalloped neckline, bell sleeves and a chapel train, all trimmed with Venetian lace.

Her floor length mantee veil was held by a lace headpiece and she carried a cluster bouquet of large mums surrounded by pompons.

Lisa Tardiff of Gladstone was the miniature bride and carrying the rings was Scott Weber of Neenah. Miss Tardiff was dressed similar to the bride and carried a nosegay of yellow and white mums and pompons.

Serving as best man for his brother was Corner Cobb of Oshkosh, Wis., and groomsmen were Jerald Broehm of Neenah and William Mead, also of Neenah. Seating the guests were Robert Tardiff and Gladstone and Dennis Weber of Neenah.

Reception
The reception was held in the Pine Room of Lake Road Lanes in Neenah. After a wedding trip to Upper Michigan, the newlyweds will reside in Neenah.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of Gladstone High School and Mr. Cobb is presently attending IBM School in Appleton. Both young people are employed by Neenah Paper, Kimberly-Clark.

If you are in doubt about the correct choice of foundation make-up which, traditionally, should match the skin or be one shade lighter or one shade darker always choose one shade lighter because the natural skin color adds to the depth of the tint and you may look like a raccoon.

Annual Holiday Musical Set At Immanuel

The Immanuel Lutheran Church women have chosen Wednesday, Dec. 3 as the date for their annual Christmas Musical. The theme is "The Spirit of Christmas," and it will be held in the church fellowship hall from 2 to 4 p. m.

Members of the Sarah, Mary and Ruth units are preparing refreshments and tea will be served throughout the afternoon.

The executive board has made arrangements for the program with musical selections being presented each half hour. Participating will be: Mrs. C. E. Hendrickson, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Clarence Moore; David Ryan, Jan Beck and Bruce Bender, folk trio and the Escanaba Area Public High School Chorus under the direction of Conrad Beck.

Decorations for the holiday event will be furnished by the Joanna unit. An invitation is extended to members and friends in the community and surrounding area to attend.

Be Thorough When Preparing Holiday Turkey

ATLANTA, Ga. — (AP) — If your Thanksgiving turkey's coming out of a freezer, let it thaw completely.

Then cook it thoroughly. That way, says Dr. Matthew S. Loewenstein, you minimize the risk of having the holiday spoiled by food poisoning.

Dr. Loewenstein is assistant chief of the Salmonella Unit of the National Communicable Disease Center (NCDC) here. Loewenstein says turkeys—as well as other poultry, eggs, and many meat products—may transmit salmonellosis, a food poisoning that could turn Thanksgiving fun into great discomfort.

Salmonellosis is an acute infectious disease characterized by a sudden onset of abdominal pain, diarrhea, frequent vomiting, chills, fever and prostration, says the NCDC. Loewenstein said the chances of buying a turkey that carries salmonellosis are "about 10 per cent" at any time of the year. However, he added, if the turkey is thawed out well and cooked thoroughly under hygienic conditions, there is almost no chance of getting salmonellosis from a disease-carrying bird.

Another NCDC official, Dr. John Bennett, said regular checks on poultry conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture don't reveal whether salmonellosis is present. Individual bacteriological tests would have to be conducted to detect the disease, Bennett explained.

The disease poses no serious threats to healthy persons, Bennett said.

However, infants and elderly persons, as well as those weakened by illness, may be fatally affected by gastrointestinal disorders caused by salmonellosis. Bennett said most healthy persons who eat food carrying the disease will experience only mild discomfort for 24 to 48 hours.

4-H Program Organized in Perronville Area

A youth group, organized by the 4-H club, will meet weekly in Perronville, to set up a youth program for youngsters in the area.

Brown outlined the history of the organization and explained recent trends in making projects very flexible, few more boys in her group; viewing knowledge gained in the primary goal of developing the character of the youngster.

Closer ties with parents are stressed, Brown said, resulting in smaller project groups. The Rev. Emmett Norden is interested in leading boys in a project area or areas of their choice. Young people interested in joining club work may contact the above leaders whose groups are still open, or call the Rev. Emmett Norden, who is area organizational leader, at HO6-7488.

A discussion followed Brown's presentation and at its conclusion...

The Friendly Folks!

Is Political Fund-Raising Heading For Gimmick Era?

By LARRY KURTZ
LANSING (AP)—If Michigan Democrats can raise $50,000 by offering prizes, will political fund raising in this state enter a new era?
Both Democrats and Republicans have big deficits. And while party spokesmen insist the traditional fund raising methods are as good as ever, they agree that increasing costs make it necessary also to consider new ways of getting the dollar.
State Democratic Chairman James McNeely says the party's new twist—a game offering a big prize reward for only $1—simply is an emergency measure for now, aimed at wiping out a deficit.

May Try Again
If it is successful, however, McNeely says he can "almost guarantee" the party will try the contest approach again.
After all, who wouldn't want to repeat a $50,000 gimmick?
Republican Chairman William McLaughlin says he, too, will be interested in the results of the contest which offers a 1970 automobile as grand prize and lures

Shore Erosion Cited By Water Resource Group

LANSING (AP)—Some 33 miles of Michigan shoreline has suffered major erosion damage and another 230 miles has sustained minor damage from high water levels, says William Mark of the State Water Resources Commission.

Mark, chief of the water development services division of the state commission, undertook a survey on orders from Gov. William Milliken.

"Property on all the Great Lakes suffered damage," Mark said. He estimated the Lake Michigan shoreline was the hardest hit, especially on stretches along Berrien, Allegan and Ottawa counties and around Manistee.

Water levels in Lakes Michigan and Huron are about one foot above the 1968 average and two feet over the 10-year average. Levels in Lake Superior and Lake Erie are also up about a foot.

Dollar estimates of the damage have not been totaled but some officials have estimated they may double the $20 million loss by lakeshore property owners in 1962.

The Michigan Legislature passed a number of statutes setting local zoning laws following the 1962 damage but thousands of residents have disregarded the risks and warnings from authorities and have built cottages on the water's edge.

Mark indicated the most feasible solution to the problem would be mandatory zoning by local government. He estimated it would cost as much as $100 million to build breakwaters in high risk areas, a move which would only partially solve the problem.

Mark's study will serve as the basis for legislation tentatively set for submission by Gov. Milliken in January. The bills would establish state-local shoreline zoning and extensive engineering studies.

participants with 102 other prizes.
Does he think this type of approach cheapens the political fund raising process?
No Objection
"I have no objection to raising money in any legal way," he laughed.

However, he says the Republicans have not been working on a game approach.
McNeely says it's one way to see if it is a means of broadening the base of political contributions without asking for large amounts.

"Nobody in this contest has to buy a membership," McNeely says. "And we're not taking names for mailing lists."

Republican Gov. William Milliken says broadening the base of financial support is an important problem for both parties, but that he has not found the game approach particularly appealing.

Fund Drain Topic
McNeely says Democrats could have raised enough to cover their deficit by calling for $100 pledges. But that, he says, would have been draining funds from the 1970 program.
He says the party needed "a new kind of fund raiser" for the current deficit.

Does this hint that traditional solicitations just aren't doing the job anymore? Not at all, McNeely says.

In 1969, he says, Democrats have raised more money through $5-$15 memberships than ever before in a non-campaign year.

Old Ways Best
McLaughlin says that from a fund raising standpoint, the old ways still are the best ways. He says the party does not have any games planned in its effort to erase a deficit of $150,000.

"We've stopped the growth of the deficit," he says. "Now we're trying to cut it"—through the old ways of personal solicitation, dinners and the like.

Secretary of State James Hare, a Democrat, says the parties would do better to bring in professional fund raisers, because they probably would bring in a higher return for the expense.

McLaughlin says the party "wrestled" with the idea of hiring a professional fund raiser, but decided against it.

"We decided to run our own show," he said.

1970 Car Top Prize
Here is how the Democratic contest works:
You pay $1 for a card on which there is a heavily dotted map of Michigan. The object is to estimate the number of dots. Top prize is a 1970 car. Second prize is a snowmobile. Third prize is a color television set. And there are 100 other prizes, too.

It sounds something like a lottery, but lotteries are prohibited under Michigan law. And McNeely says a great deal of time was spent researching the legal aspects of the contest, to make sure it fell within the law.

Game Of Skill
What makes this contest different from a lottery, McNeely claims is that it is a game of skill—not of chance.

He says the skill is in "estimating" the number of dots. The contest closes Jan. 18, with winners to be announced Jan. 25.

In the meantime, Republicans can be expected to at least have thoughts about games of their own—even if no plans are in the works.

A big success by the Democrats in this area would be hard to ignore. And where the game approach could lead is anybody's guess.

Storage Tips For Boaters

The essentials of good boat storage are adequate hull support, provision for thorough drainage and ventilation, and protection from weather. How best to accomplish these requisites depends on individual circumstances, report boating experts.

Too often, adequate support is not provided. The reason why it is needed is that any boat hull, particularly one made of wood or fiberglass, is flexible and can gradually change shape when pressure is applied to a few places for a long time. Metal will usually spring back into shape, but any "set" imparted to wood or plastic is apt to be permanent.

According to the boating experts, a boat that is stored right side up should have four or five support blocks along the length of its keel, plus a reasonable number under the outer edges of its bottom. Avoid allowing a boat to stand leaning to one side, with one side of its bottom contacting the floor or ground. This puts a twisting force into the hull that can eventually result in permanent distortion.

For the same reason, avoid storing small open boats on their sides, leaning against the wall. Gunwale distortion is likely, and with it distortion of the hull.

When a boat is stored upside down, place support under its midsection. When inverted and resting only on bow and stern, a boat becomes a small bridge and its hull just isn't trussed to withstand the sagging strains.

When a boat is stored right side up it is well to tilt the bow up slightly so that water which gets in will flow aft and out the transom drain. Do not allow leaves to accumulate in a boat and stand; they will cause in-eradicable stains.

Raise wooden boats far enough from the ground so spashing rain or drifting snow won't keep lower areas of the hull constantly damp and prone to rot. Do not allow any wooden part to rest on the ground, floor or mat then is almost certain. Similarly, don't allow metal boats to rest on dead grass or leaves; rain and snow will combine with chemicals in such vegetable matter and in time the metal's surface can be etched or even corroded where it touches such matter on the ground.

Civil Service In Wayne County Hit By Circuit Judge

DETROIT (AP)—Wayne County Circuit Judge Thomas J. Foley has charged that the civil service system in Wayne County is corrupt.

Foley referred to a ruling he handed down four months ago when he declared unconstitutional a 1969 state law permitting provisionally-appointed county personnel to retain their positions without taking civil service examinations. The law applied to those appointed prior to July 1968.

Foley charged that the County Civil Service Commission has taken no action to have those employees covered by the ruling take examinations to retain their jobs. "It is a form of the old spoils system," Foley said in an interview.

In his original ruling, Foley said the law did not provide equal protection since it makes those jobs filled by appointment closed to competitive examinations.

Fred Husted, an attorney for the commission, said the examinations have not been given to provisional appointees because a motion is pending for a rehearing on the ruling.

Smaller Heads Mean Less Room For Dentists

ST. JOSEPH (AP)—Add this to items someone may eventually worry about—a University of Michigan dentistry professor says human heads are becoming smaller, posing a problem for dentists.

Dr. James Harris, chairman of the university's department of orthodontics, told a St. Joseph meeting that X-rays of "Mummies" skulls in Egypt shows the heads of modern men are smaller than those persons who lived in ancient Egypt. Harris said teeth are becoming smaller to but not as quickly as head sizes in shrinking.

Defense Ignites Raiders In 27-24 Win Over Chiefs

By The Associated Press

Quarterback Len Dawson has seen his mates on the Kansas City Chiefs defensive team make as many as five interceptions in a game. But this time it was the Oakland Raiders who stole that many passes — passes thrown by Dawson.

Two of the interceptions Sunday were returned for touchdowns as the Raiders edged Chiefs 27-24 and moved back into first place in the American Football League's Western Division with a 9-1 record compared to Kansas City's 9-2.

"Our defense had done it against some other people," said the veteran Dawson, who could not recall throwing five interceptions in a game before. "There really is no excuse. The Oakland rush was a hard one, but I should have thrown better too."

In other AFL action, the Eastern Division-leading New York Jets, 9-3, drubbed Cincinnati, 4-61, 40-7; Boston, 3-8, topped Buffalo, 3-8, 35-21; San Diego, 5-4, outlasted Denver, 4-61, 45-24; and Houston, 5-4-3, trounced Miami, 2-8-1, 33-7.

One of Oakland's interceptions was returned 75 yards by linebacker Dan Conners for a touchdown that gave the Raiders a 27-17 lead at Kansas City.

Rockets Notch Second Victory

ENGADINE — The Rapid River Rockets got another team effort and scored their second victory of the season Saturday night, edging the Engadine Eagles 82-74 in a non-conference clash.

Rapid River opened with a two-point lead and extended it to nine points by the end of the third quarter. The Rockets then held off a rally by the Eagles in the fourth period to notch the victory.

Statistically, the Rockets made 26 of 60 field goal attempts for 43 per cent and out-rebounded the Eagles 41 to 32. Sam Johnson, Dan Safford and Chuck Larson led the way for the Rockets on the boards.

Dale Morin paced the Rapid River offensive attack with 24 points on seven points and ten field goals and Safford also went over the 20-point mark with 22 points on seven field goals and eight free throws.

Other Rapid River players in double figures were Johnson with 18 points and Larson with 11.

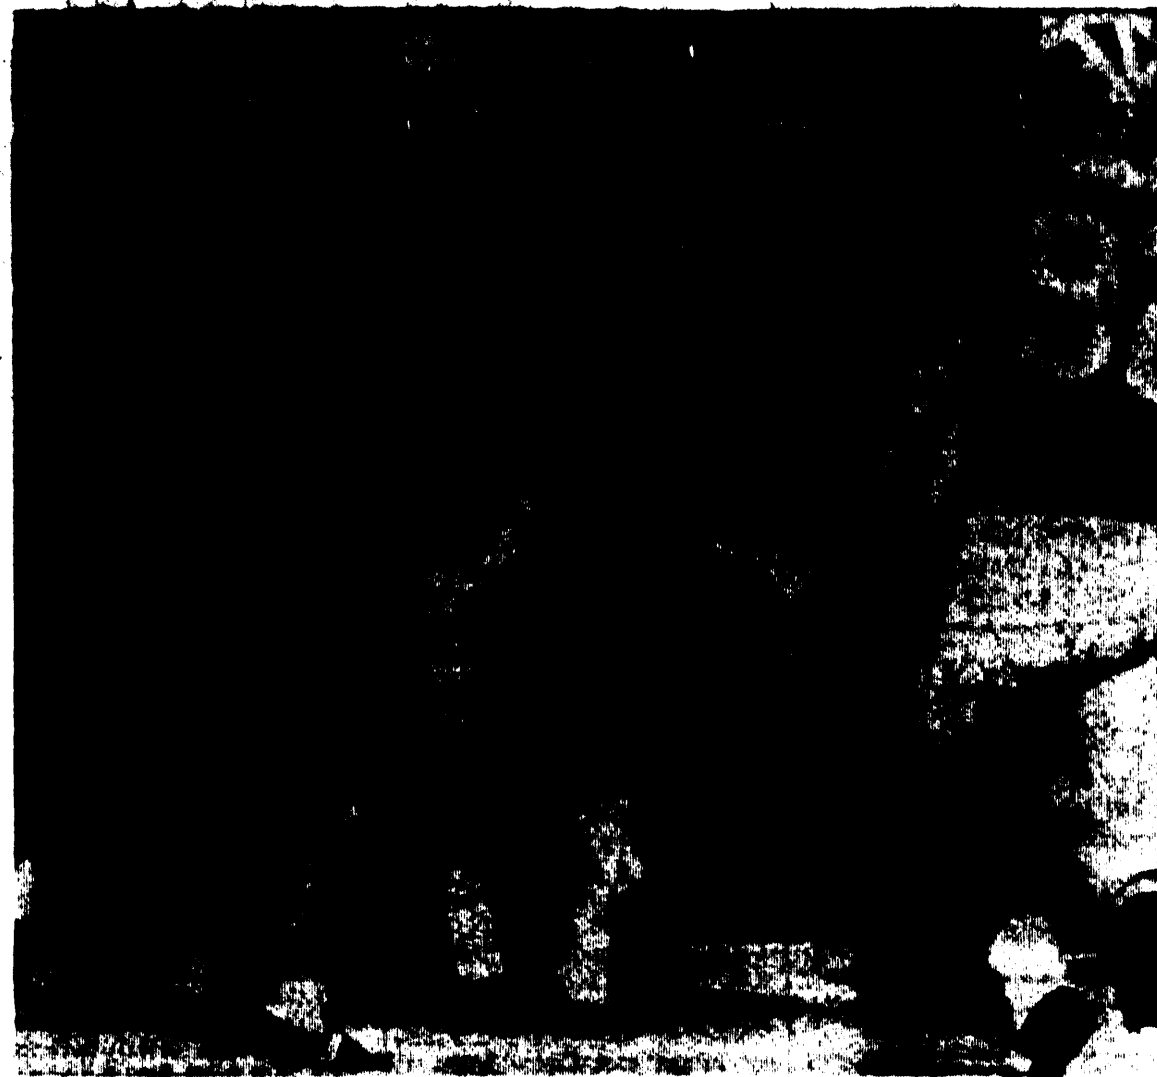

The Rockets are now 2-0 on the season and are idle until they hit the road on Dec. 3 for a Central League contest against the Rock Little Giants.

HAPPY COACH — Michigan coach Bo Schembechler shows excitement of the game as he watches his team lead Ohio State at Ann Arbor Saturday. Parseghian Feels Layoff Will Hurt Irish In Bowl

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Coach Ara Parseghian conceded today his Notre Dame football team is handicapped by "a huge void in time" preparing for No. 2 Texas or No. 3 Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

"They will be practicing under imminent game conditions for two consecutive weeks, while we may be laying off more than two weeks of the 38 days before New Year's Day," said Parseghian.

He referred to Thanksgiving Day games sending Texas against Texas A&M and Arkansas against Texas Tech before Texas and Arkansas collide Dec. 6 in a showdown for the Southwest Conference title and Cotton Bowl assignment against Notre Dame.

It is ironic that Notre Dame last week lifting a 44-year ban against post-season play, this fall made its earliest finish in years last Saturday with a hard-earned triumph over Air Force 13-6.

Parseghian is touching all bases as a "complete novice" is readying for a Bowl Game. Today, Ara talks with a seven-man player committee to get the team's feelings about a practice and travel schedule. The group is headed by co-captains Bob Olson and Mike Oriard.

Parseghian, meanwhile, excused his somewhat battered Irish for Thanksgiving week, suggesting they keep in shape by playing handball, basketball or otherwise exercising on an individual basis.

"I won't see them again until next Monday or Tuesday at the earliest," he said. A tentative practice plan may include working out here from Dec. 16 or 20, then breaking for Christmas and resuming drills after Christmas at Dallas. Bad South Bend weather, on the other hand might send the Irish straight to Dallas Dec. 16.

Texas and Arkansas scouts last Saturday saw Notre Dame, minus four injured offensive starters, huff and puff to beg by a good Air Force team.

The Irish were held to one touchdown in victory the first time in 11 years and fumbled through a second half in which the only score was the game's fourth field goal and second by Air Force's Dennis Louthouser.

The margin of victory was two field goals by Scott Hemple following Denny Allan's slick 30 touchdown run with the game 2-03 old.

Parseghian however, saw considerable benefit in the fact the Irish "needed a game in which there was great pressure all the way."

"And take it from me, Air Force is a very fine team."

Bullets Bombard Unlucky Lakers

By The Associated Press

The streaking Lakers gunned down Los Angeles, adding another bit of misfortune to the ailing Lakers' bid for prosperity in the National Basketball Association's Western Division.

Earl Monroe was the deadliest Bullet of them all with 31 points as Baltimore knocked off the Lakers 129-97 Sunday night for its seventh straight victory.

The setback dropped Los Angeles two games back of leader Atlanta in the West chase, while second-place Baltimore moved to within 5 1/2 of idle New York in the East.

Cincinnati rolled past Phoenix 137-123 and Boston topped Seattle 125-116 in the night's only other activity.

In the American Basketball Association, the New York Nets defeated Pittsburgh 120-106, Kentucky downed Los Angeles 121-115 and Dallas whipped Washington 121-117.

Baltimore victory—its 10th in 11 starts—snapped the Lakers' five-game winning streak.

Only the brilliant plant of Jerry West, who scored 38 points, kept the Lakers, who played most of the way with only six healthy players, in the game at all.

The Lakers rang up a 34-18 lead by late in the first quarter and held a 62-45 command at the half. The Lakers managed to cut the margin to 82-71 late in the third quarter, but Baltimore quickly rolled back into control.

Monroe received 19-point support from Jack Marin and Gus Johnson added 18. Mel Counts had 23 points and 22 rebounds for Los Angeles.

Oscar Robertson drilled in 39 points and Tom Van Arsdale had 29 in guiding the Royals past Phoenix.

The Suns grabbed an early lead, but Fred Foster's basket gave the Royals a 33-31 edge at the end of the first quarter and Cincinnati maintained a narrow lead until the Suns went on to briefly at the start of the second half.

The Royals led by only 114-113 with five minutes to go, but Robertson and Van Arsdale then combined for nine points to put it out of reach.

Jerry Chambers scored 31 points for Phoenix.

Larry Siegfried scored 26 points and John Havlicek 23—including eight in a fourth quarter rally—as Boston topped the SuperSonics.

The Celtics led 96-91 at the start of the final session, but Seattle rallied and Lenny Wilkens jumper from the free throw line gave the Sonics a 99-98 lead with 10:13 left.

But a few seconds later, Havlicek converted a three-point play and Boston never trailed after that.

Bob Rule was high scorer for Seattle with 33 points.

In Saturday night's NBA games, New York topped Phoenix 128-114, Philadelphia whipped Atlanta 132-116, Chicago checked Milwaukee 125-106, Los Angeles beat San Francisco 104-98 and San Diego sailed past Boston 125-116.

"I was selling sporting goods at Moorhead, Minnesota, at the time," Mann said. "I was out of a football job."

But Mann was picked up by Detroit, whose coach, Joe Schmidt, called him "the guy that's been helping us a lot this season."

Mercer, meanwhile, has been having more than his share of trouble with field goals. He missed one of two Sunday, bringing his total for the year to five completions for 17 attempts. He has had six blocked.

On the 31-yard Mercer missed Sunday, he said the field was torn up and it was difficult to find a place to stand or place the ball. He said the real reason for the miss, however, was that he "didn't aim right, as much further to the left would have done it."

He connected later on a 27-yarder.

Bengton had little praise for his team, which lost its third game in a row for the first time since 1959, and went 11 quarters without an offense-scored touchdown until Boyd Dowler caught a 10-yard pass from quarterback Don Horn in the closing minutes of the game for a score.

Horn was playing in place of Bart Starr, who suffered what Bengton called "a partial shoulder separation," and will be out of action indefinitely. He had been having trouble with his right arm even before that.

The Packers scored another apparent touchdown earlier in the game when Horn hit Danny Anderson in the end zone with a pass from the nine-yard line. But the play was called back on an offensive pass interference call, and the Packers were penalized 15 yards.

Bengton said the call was on Dowler "who was pretty far away from Anderson, so I didn't see what happened."

Said Dowler, "I've been called on that before, so there must be something to it. I lead the league in that."

"The Lions have a good chance," said Bengton. "They do have one of the leading defenses in the league."

Schmidt also is optimistic about Detroit's title chances.

"It will be a pretty tough ball game for us Thursday. We are pretty beat up. But we've got life if we can beat the Vikings," Schmidt said. "This team just won't give up. Every week is a big challenge for them, and they mean it. They want to win."

Rams Nip Cowboys; Retain Win Streak

By The Associated Press

There's a simple reason why the Los Angeles Rams are enjoying astonishing success this season, according to George Allen, coach of the National Football League's only unbeaten club.

"The story of our football team in 1969 is simply this: We come up the big plays when we have to," said Allen.

And the Rams were coming up with big plays all over the place Sunday in turning back Dallas 24-23 for their 10th straight victory — the longest winning streak in the NFL since Green Bay did it in 1962.

Quarterback Roman Gabriel accounted for three of the plays — firing two touchdown passes and running for another — before the Rams cracking defense came up with some more in cutting short a gallant Cowboy comeback in the final quarter.

In other games, Minnesota thundered past Pittsburgh 52-14, Baltimore squeezed past Chicago 24-21 on some late heroics by veteran Johnny Unitas, Cleveland clipped New York 28-17, Washington topped Atlanta 27-20, Detroit beat Green Bay 16-10, Philadelphia whipped St. Louis 34-30 and New Orleans subdued San Francisco 43-38.

Gabriel Scores

Gabriel's one-yard scoring run gave the Rams a 24-16 lead and an apparent victory with just 10 minutes left. But the injury-riddled Cowboys stormed back with a 99-yard march and cut the gap to one point on Craig Morton's eight-yard TD pass to Lance Rentzel.

Then, with time running out, Dallas launched another drive, but it ended when Eddie Meador intercepted a Morton pass, leaving Dallas with an 8-2 season mark.

Morton also hit Mike Ditka with an 11-yard strike, while Mike Clark booted field goals of 18, 22 and 43 yards for the Cowboys.

Boys. Bruce Gossett kicked a 36-yarder for the Rams.

Gary Cuozzo came bounding off the bench to fire two touchdown passes and set up two more as Minnesota ran its record to 9-1 and maintained its two-game edge over Dallas in the Central Division. The Vikings and Lions square off Thanksgiving Day.

Cuozzo, who passed for 130 yards, hit John Henderson with a 28-yarder and tossed a six-yarder to Oscar Reed in the match marked by some marathons returns and bizarre plays.

Unusual Return

One of the game's most unusual incidents came in the third period when, with the Vikings leading 24-11, Charlie West took a Steelers kickoff on his 14 and raced down the sidelines. The ball popped out of his hands at the Viking 40, but Minnesota's Jim Beasley didn't even break stride in snatching the ball, mid-air and rambling the final 60 yards.

Pittsburgh's Don McCall returned a kickoff 101 yards for a TD and Paul Krause of the Vikings ran back an interception 77 yards to score in the first half.

Unitas lounged around the sidelines—marking the first time since 1956 that the veteran quarterback, in healthy condition, didn't start for the Colts—and watched Chicago intercept two Earl Morrall passes and turn them into touchdowns.

Finally, with just 7:40 left and the Colts trailing 21-14, the old maestro got the call—and promptly directed a 67-yard TD drive, in which he connected on all three of the passes he threw in the game, to tie it.

Redskins Win

Charlie Harroway rambled 68 yards for the only touchdown of the second half to tie Washington from behind and take a victory over Atlanta. The Falcons managed to drive past the Washington 20 twice late in the game, but one threat was halted by a Paul Gipson fumble and the Redskins held on down the other time.

Norm Sneed hit Gary Ballman with a 23-yard touchdown pass with just 22 seconds left to give Philadelphia victory over St. Louis in a see-saw battle of the pair of teams striving to reach the .500 mark. The two teams traded the lead four times in the wild final quarter.

Ernie Wheelwright bucked over from the three-yard line with just 26 seconds left to enable New Orleans to pull it out against the 49ers.

San Francisco had taken a 21-0 lead before the Saints caught fire and roared back.

Michigan, Ohio State Share Big Ten Crown

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan's stunning victory over Ohio State got the Big Ten's athletic directors off the Rose Bowl hot seat.

It also appeased the West Coast by presenting a Big Ten co-champion against Southern California New Year's Day instead of a runnerup.

About the only thing against the whole ball of wax is that the Buckeyes' defeat left the Big Ten without its No. 1 team banner which OSU carried all season.

Michigan's 24-12 triumph which ended the Bucks' 22-game winning streak left the two teams sharing the conference title with 6-1 records.

A Michigan loss would have locked the Wolverines with Purdue for second place, making the athletic directors sweat out a vote as to which team to send to Pasadena.

Purdue closed out in third place at 5-2 by blasting Indiana 44-21 as Mike Phipps set Big Ten total offense and passing yardage records. He gained 1,500 yards in the air for seven conference games and a total of 1,699.

Michigan was the first Big Ten team ever to go to the Rose Bowl, defeating Stanford 49-0 in 1952. Then, when the modern pact was signed, the Wolverines crushed California 49-0 in 1955, downed California 14-6 in 1951 and dumped Oregon State 34-7 in 1955.

Minnesota, winning all its games in November, captured fourth place with 4-3 by polling off Wisconsin 35-10.

Northwestern, Iowa, Indiana and Wisconsin tied for fifth at 3-4. Michigan State was 9th with 2-5 and Illinois last with 0-7.

Michigan State trimmed Northwestern 39-7 while Iowa humbled Illinois 40-0.

The Illini finished with an over all record of 9-10—their worst since starting football in 1890—and have won only one game in the last two years.

Illinois Athletic Director Gene Vance says that Jim Valke's head coaching job is secure for next year.

Valke, looking forward to a fine freshman crop coming up, says "there will be a lot of changes over the winter—in our thoughts, our ideas, our people and our personnel."

Michigan Cage Squad To Open

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Most eyes will still be on the football Wolverines, but the Michigan basketball team debuts tonight in the traditional freshman-varsity game at the University Events Building.

The team is minus starting forwards Dennis Stewart and Bob Sullivan and guard Ken Maxey, all of whom graduated last spring. But the Wolverine attack will be led again this season by 6-foot-7, All-Big Ten forward Rudy Tomjanovich.

Tomjanovich, a graduate of Hamtramck High School, enters his senior year as one of only six Michigan netters who has topped 1,000 points in his career. He averaged 25.7 points and 14.2 rebounds a game last season.

The other returning starter is junior guard Dan Fife.

Castoff Mann Has No Hard Feelings

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Place-kicker Erroll Mann, a Packers castoff, bears no hard feelings against the Green Bay team, but says, "It was beautiful" to kick three field goals that made the difference in Detroit's 16-10 victory over the Packers Sunday.

Mann connected on boots of 23, 21 and 31 yards against the team that rejected him at the beginning of the 1969 season. He now has scored 75 points in National Football League competition this season, and is 18 for 23 on field goal attempts.

Mann had signed a 1969 year squad contract with the Packers, but did not bear from them when the season began and was not invited to camp. He finally called Coach Phil Bengton, who informed him the Packers were going with Mike Mercer for this season, Mann said.

"I was selling sporting goods at Moorhead, Minnesota, at the time," Mann said. "I was out of a football job."

But Mann was picked up by Detroit, whose coach, Joe Schmidt, called him "the guy that's been helping us a lot this season."

Mercer, meanwhile, has been having more than his share of trouble with field goals. He missed one of two Sunday, bringing his total for the year to five completions for 17 attempts. He has had six blocked.

Ex-Prisoner Of War Tells Of Red Abuse

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A former U.S. prisoner of war in North Vietnam says his Communist captors hit him with rocks, threatened him with knives, slapped him and tied ropes around his right arm which was shattered when his plane was shot down.

But worse than that, said Navy Lt. Robert Frishman, were barrages of ugly newspaper stories from the United States and the periods of isolation.

Captive 21 Months

Frishman, 28, of nearby San Diego, spent 21 months in captivity before his release last August with two other prisoners. He still appears gaunt from loss of 50 pounds.

"The Communists gave us news of America all right," Frishman said Friday in an interview with Robert Dietrich of the San Diego Evening Tribune. "We got the news of the Chicago riots and the Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King assassinations."

Reds Use Knives

"You can look at today's American newspapers and ask yourself, 'What would the Communists want to hear?' and that's what we heard."

"The actual physical thing isn't so bad," Frishman said. "I was struck with rocks and had knives jabbed at me and I was slapped around and tied up with ropes on my bad arm."

"They use American newspapers and magazines. They extract only the bad things, things that give the communies support and encouragement. They say, 'Look how it is in America—we can outlast them like we did the French.'"

12th Mission Fatal

His Navy attack aircraft was shot down near Hanoi on his 12th combat mission. After his release he was given initial medical treatment and was debriefed in Washington. He is at the San Diego Naval Hospital for an operation expected to restore use of his arm. The arm was shortened and partially paralyzed when North Vietnamese doctors removed the section of bone.

Frishman said he probably will not be allowed to resume flying but hopes to stay in the Navy.

Catholic School May Close Due To Internal Rift

WYANDOTTE (AP) — Our Lady of Mt. Carmel High School in Wyandotte will probably close in June, the Rev. Venant Szymanski announced last week. There was disagreement at the Detroit Archdiocese.

Father Szymanski, pastor of Mt. Carmel parish, said a teacher shortage is a contributing factor in the expected closing. He said the Felician Sisters, who assist in teaching at the school, have transferred four of the school's teachers.

"That would leave us with only four nuns," the priest said, "and that's just not enough. I'm afraid it will take a miracle to save the school."

There are now 284 pupils enrolled in the 36-year-old school with eight Felician Sisters and eight lay teachers.

The Most Rev. Thomas Gumbleton, vicar general of the archdiocese, said, "Mt. Carmel isn't closing. In fact that isn't even the issue. I believe Father Szymanski is reacting to Wednesday night's meeting of Wyandotte parishioners, some of whom would like to turn Mt. Carmel into an expanded grammar school."

"Under the plan," Bishop Gumbleton said, "Mt. Carmel students would move to Gabriel Richard High School in Riverview where there is plenty of room for them."

"We've never considered closing Mt. Carmel," the Bishop added. "I'm afraid that Father Szymanski's statement is a little premature."

High-Powered Sports Cars Could Backfire On Industry

DETROIT (AP) — In an effort to snap out of its 1968 profit squeeze, the U.S. auto industry made a large investment in high-powered sports cars for 1970.

Now there are signs that the American consumer isn't buying and the squeeze could turn into an economic bear hug.

Inventories are higher this year than last throughout the industry and specialty cars top the list. An indication of the high inventories came recently when Chrysler Corp. said it would lay off 17,000 workers at plants for the four scheduled working days next week.

First Cutback Noted

It was the first cutback—which are taken normally to bring inventories into line — by an automobile manufacturer since the start of the 1970 model production.

American Motors had stocks of 1970 Javelin and AMX models which will last more than 100 days, the trade publication Automotive News reported this week. Chevrolet Camaro and Pontiac Firebird — actually unchanged from 1969 — each stood at more than 100 days along with Plymouth's Barracuda.

Other specialty car inventories on a day basis listed by Automotive News were: Pontiac Grand Prix, 48; Chevrolet Monte Carlo, 58; Ford Thunderbird, 66; Ford Mustang, 66½; Dodge Charger, 66; Dodge Challenger, 69; Mercury Cougar, 80.

Specialty Inventory

The industry as a whole was reported to have a specialty car inventory which would last 75 days while the inventory of all cars was estimated at 45½ days, which was 6½ days higher than a year earlier.

A highly regarded University of Michigan economist, George Katona, said today he sees trouble ahead for the auto industry with indications of a 5 to 10 per cent drop in sales for 1970 cars.

Softening Spirit

Katona, speaking at the 17th annual conference on the Economic Outlook, said his reliable survey on consumer sentiment showed a softening spirit to buy among the American consumers. A month earlier Katona said new car sales might escape the pessimism that was beginning to grip buyers.

"I believe the time has come for a reversal of the government's tight — money policy — first of all because it is doubtful whether tight money helps greatly against inflation," Katona said. He said the pessimistic view about the near future is contrasted with an optimistic long range view.

The current issue of Ward's Automotive Reports said the automakers have scheduled production of about 2.2 million cars for the fourth quarter compared to about 2.5 million a year earlier.

Adjustment Misleading The publication, however, pointed out that the 1970 model year began earlier this fall and that the adjustment could be misleading. Production and sales of the 1970 models began generally a week earlier this fall compared to 1969.

Latest industry sales figures are expected Monday. Through Nov. 16 the domestic makers trailed 1968 sales by about 35,000 units with sales from Jan. 1 of 7,334,187 cars.

Chrysler Corp. said its layoffs next week would be on several car lines, rather than just specialty cars. However, it plans to lay off workers at its three other U.S. assembly plants on Friday, the day after Thanksgiving. Chrysler, however, says it will give overtime pay to all eligible employees even if they are laid off.

1969 Catastrophies Lowest In Decade

Catastrophic accidents were responsible for approximately 600 deaths in the continental United States during the first six months of 1969, according to a special report compiled by researchers.

Catastrophes — accidents in which five or more persons lose their lives — thus took about 100 less lives during the first half of this year, as compared to the corresponding period of 1968, and also were appreciably lower than the average for the first half-year periods of the previous decade.

Most of the major categories of catastrophes — motor vehicle, civil aviation, fires and explosions, and natural catastrophes — recorded moderate declines from the levels of the first half of 1968. The death toll resulting from catastrophes in mines and quarries was also lower.

Although the overall record for natural catastrophe accidents showed a decrease, the picture was mixed: fatalities from tornadoes dropped sharply; those from floods rose substantially. Catastrophes associated with water transportation also caused a somewhat larger loss of life in the first half of 1969. Military aviation showed little change.

During the first six months of 1969, there were four major catastrophes, each of which caused at least 25 deaths; in the aggregate they caused the death of about 140 persons.

Statisticians point out that the heaviest toll — 43 fatalities — resulted from the floods and subsequent mud slides in southern California in late January. Thirty — eight lives were lost in the second largest catastrophe: the crash of a scheduled airline passenger plane near Los Angeles, Calif., on Jan. 18.

The tornado which struck southern Mississippi on Jan. 23, fatally injuring 32 persons, and a collision of a freighter and an oil barge on April 6 at New Orleans, La., accounting for 25 fatalities, were the two other major catastrophes of the first six months of 1969.

Children From Poor Families View TV More

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — A Michigan sociologist says children from poor families spend more than five hours daily watching television. This compares with about two hours daily for children from middle-income families.

Dr. Bradley Greenberg, associate professor of communications at Michigan State University, spoke in London, Ontario, Thursday.

He said "television is almost an exclusive source of stimulation for the poor" because limited educational opportunity has stifled their reading skills. Greenberg added: "the only medium through which the major society can reach this subculture with any degree of penetration is through television."

Fumes Kill Pair

DETROIT (AP) — Police say carbon monoxide fumes from a faulty exhaust system apparently killed Shirley J. Hogg, 36, and Robert A. Neal, 19, both of Detroit. Their bodies were found early Sunday in a car parked in a supermarket parking lot just outside Detroit.

Eight Convicts Nearing Parole Awarded Jobs

PONTIAC (AP)—Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors Corp. has hired eight soon to be paroled convicts, who now commute from prison, on a permanent basis.

They started work last week and are scheduled for parole in the next month.

Their employment represents a new step in a rehabilitation program run by the Michigan Department of Corrections and was conceived last August when 47 Pontiac officials toured the Michigan Reformatory and Michigan Training Unit.

The eight hired after corrections department screening have been moved to Camp Pontiac, a minimum security institution, outside nearby Clarkston. A corrections department station wagon transports them to their afternoon — shift jobs.

They get the standard starting wage of $3.40 an hour. This goes to $3.50 in 90 days. They get an additional 5 per cent premium for afternoon — shift work.

The United Auto Workers Union is cooperating with the 8 who will become UAW members eligible for vacation, pension, insurance and other fringe benefits.

Money earned by the convicts is to be held in a special state account until they are paroled. They will be permitted, however, to purchase such items as lunches, tobacco and clothing.

They also must send a portion of their wages to designated dependents when support is required.

"All too often a man in prison has a family on relief and debts pile up while he serves his sentence," said Gus Harrison, state corrections commissioner.

"When he returns home he has financial problems, employment problems and personal adjustment problems. The 'work — pass' program is aimed at helping him overcome these problems — and at keeping him from becoming a repeater."

Husband Held

BALDWIN (AP)—Jerry Radimak, 44, Grand Rapids, is being held in connection with the fatal shooting of his wife, Helen, 36, at a hunting cabin near Big Star Lake in Lake County Saturday. Police said Mrs. Radimak was shot with a .30 caliber rifle.
